FLASHED INTO EXISTENCE.

How Daubigny Studied a Door All Day to Paint a Picture.

Charles Noel Flagg of New York tells interesting stories of bohemian life in Paris in the seventies.

"I was at Honfleur one summer," said Mr. Flagg, "when the Daubignys, father and son—were there. I have always thought Daubigny the strongest and sanest landscape painter in the Barbizon group, and it was interesting to see how he worked and how he taught his son. This son was a man of brilliant talent, who died soon after, unfortunately. He would take an enormous canvas out into the field and cover it in an hour and a half—this was to get composition, massing of light and shade, etc.—and then his father would come and criticize it. Some of these big swift things were shown in the salon afterward. The painters used to contribute in one way or another to the fine old inn where we stopped, and the landlord would young Daubigny to paint the end of a certain door. At last the painter promised to do it the next morning. I resolved to see that thing done, so I got up before dawn, placed myself in the old dining room at a good point of view and pretended to sketch from the window. Pretty soon young Daubigny came down professing to be not in the least disturbed by me, so I staid. He sat down in front of the door and looked at it hard for an hour or so. Then he got up and viewed it from different angles. Then he gazed at it from the end of the room. Then he sat down again. The hours came and went, and still he was studying that door, with scarcely a pause for meals. By afternoon I was nearly wild; if he didn't open his paintbox soon, I would smash the door. At last, at the beginning of twilight, presto!—I was too excited to see. All in a minute a few lightnings flashed out from him, and there was the miracle! And breathlessly I realized that he had been painting that picture all day."—Chicago Times-Herald.

The dyspeptic carries a dreadful load on his back. It seems as if he were really made up of two men. One of them ambitious, brainy and energetic; the other sick, listless, peevish and without force.

The weak man would be the other one down. The dyspeptic may be able to do pretty good work one day, and the next day because of some little indiscretion in eating, he may be able to do nothing at all. He isn't capable of continuous and vigorous effort. His bodily discomfort affects his mind. Even when he knows just what is the matter, he neglects the simplest precaution and the simple treatment that would cure him. Most of dyspepsia starts with constipation, and constipation can be cured. Constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of all human sickness. Some of its symptoms are sick and bilious headache, dizziness, sour stomach, loss of appetite, bad breath, windy belching, heartburn, pain and distress after eating. All these are indicative of derangements of the liver, stomach and bowels, and all these causes are by constipation. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the quickest, easiest and most certain cure for this condition. They are quick, but not violent in their action. There is nothing about them that will give the system any shock. They not only relieve immediately, but if taken according to directions, they will cure your cure. "You do not become a slave to their use." They are different and better than any other pill or preparation offered for the same purpose. Almost all the physicians understand this, and are conscientious enough to tell you so. The druggist who tries to sell you a substitute is not a safe man from whom to buy medicine. If you send your address, we will send you a sample package, containing from 4 to 7 doses, and a full description of the great benefit of this medicine. It is Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Advice, in Plain Language; a book of 200 pages, profusely illustrated, the great expense of preparing which has been covered by a sale of 40,000 copies at the rate of one cent per copy. Address, World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 643 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Chinese Religion.

Chinese religion has never had the peculiarities, the animal cults, the cruelties and fanaticism of other religions. Like the Jews, the Chinese had very vague ideas of future rewards and punishments and of life after death. Their ancestor cult had no mythologic motive like that of India or Japan. The Chinese, like the Jews and the Christians, had a philosophic conception that continuation of life lies not in the immortality of the soul, but in the perpetual remembrance of the righteous by mankind. The Chinese could not persevere with metaphysical problems, and so did not advance.

Confucius appeared at a time when the Chinese felt the need of a religion; but the greatest of their religious reformers was Lao-tseu, who was born about 604 B. C., or half a century before Confucius. He introduced the Tao, "way," for the idea of divinity, which previously was confused with the visible sky (Shang-ti). Tao is the element from which everything comes and to which everything returns. Lao-tseu also taught that the departure of the soul from the body was no disaster for us. But he was too vague to be a convincing reformer. Confucius was not an original thinker like Lao-tseu; he called what he liked from the older writers, and allowed people to believe what they chose. What he taught was in an original manner, and while satisfying no one he offended nobody.—Nature.

A Sympathetic Youth.

"Papa," said Georgia, "I'm so sorry sometimes about all the trouble I give mamma."

"She hasn't complained." But she often sends me off to the shops for things, and they are a good way off, and I know she gets cross waiting when she's in a hurry."

"Not often, I fancy."

"Oh, she's nearly always in a hurry. She gets everything all ready for baking and finds at the last minute she hasn't any baking powder, or she gets a pudding all mixed and finds she hasn't any nutmeg or something, and then she's in an awful stew, 'cause the oven is all ready and maybe company coming, and I can't run a very long distance, you know, and I feel awfully sorry for mamma."

"I was thinking you might get me a bicycle,"—Boston Traveller.

Letter Comes For President Monroe.

In the White House mail on June 1 was a letter addressed to "His Excellency, James Monroe, President of the U. S." It came from British Guiana and contained an urgent request for the aid of the United States in the famous doctrine against foreign encroachments on the American continent. The writer is a Venezuelan resident of British Guiana, who evidently expects great things of "President Monroe" in the territorial dispute between Great Britain and Venezuela.—Washington Star.

Earl Gray.

Earl Gray, who succeeds Dr. Jim as administrator of Rhodesia, is a tall, good looking man of 45. He was the nephew of the late Earl, and succeeded to the title less than two years ago. His wife, who was a Miss Holford, has also seen something of South African life.—London Tit-Bits.

OF MAINE.

INCREASED COINAGE OF SILVER.

The coinage of silver is to be resumed at the San Francisco Mint and will be carried on more extensively than heretofore until the end of the year. This month about $900,000 will be coined and in August it will be increased. The total coinage at the mint during the fiscal year ended June 30, 1896, was $24,332,961, of which only $1,337,451 was silver. Now it is proposed to coin about $1,000,000 in silver monthly.

No cause is given the public for this new order of the Treasury Department. It is not probable that the action of the Chicago Convention had anything to do with it. The order may have been issued before the convention met.

Is there a person who believes that the coinage of five millions in silver dollars monthly would affect the credit of the United States at home or abroad? There are 139,000,000 ounces of silver bullion stored in the United States Treasury. It is as useless there as so much bricks or stones would be. Why not coin that bullion into legal tender money and pay Government obligations with it. That would not impair our credit abroad, and if it did it would benefit the people at home to a very great extent. What we want is prosperity at home regardless of its effect on foreign nations, and there is abundant proof that the single gold standard does not bring us that prosperity. Borrowing gold on bonds does not benefit the country. It only enables the men who have hoarded gold to invest it in mortgages on the United States. Let us coin the silver in the Treasury and pay the expenses of the Government with the coin or notes redeemable in coin and relieve the money stringency, which the issuing of bonds will not do, as the people have learned from experience.

POPULISTS AND BRYAN.

The South Dakota Populist State Convention, in session yesterday at Huron, by an overwhelming majority pledged its delegates to St. Louis to endorse Bryan for President. The Nebraska Populist State Convention, in session at Grand Island, also endorsed Bryan. Senator Allen, Chairman of the Convention, said party prejudices must be laid aside and people must vote as American citizens, not as partisans. He cautioned the delegates against golding allurements at St. Louis, where, no doubt, a part of the "fat" fried from the trusts will be used to lubricate the tongues of cankerous orators who will loudly proclaim against a union of all the silver elements for Bryan.

There is not much to fear from the Populist delegates from the Northern States at St. Louis. They will be almost unanimous for nominating or endorsing Bryan, but trouble may be anticipated from the delegates from some of the Southern States. In some States the Populists and Republicans have coalesced and as many of the candidates for local offices are very much the same as those who seek Federal offices, they do not care whether the gold trust is defeated or not if they get the offices. Several of those "patriots" will, no doubt, have a voice in the St. Louis Convention, and with Hanna's hirelings may make much noise and cause considerable trouble. If the men who advocate free coinage for office only could be prevailed upon to be less selfish and more patriotic and redeem the country before they quarrel about the spoils, Bryan's election would be assured.

A QUESTION FOR GOLDITES.

Some months ago Mr. B. F. Leete asked through the papers, the question: "What good has the demonetization of silver done?"

Not a goldite answered the question then, as Republicans and Cleveland Democrats claimed to be in favor of the demonetization of silver. Now the Republican party has sanctioned the demonetization Act by declaring against free coinage, and as there are persons in this community who uphold the Republican platform, it is to be hoped that one or more of them, through the press, or otherwise, will answer Mr. Leete's question. If the demonetization of silver has benefited the country, the public should know it. As it is, the general opinion is that it has wrought greater injury than any act ever placed upon the statute books of the United States.

Justice Bigelow of the Supreme Court, who predicts dire disaster to the business interests of the country if silver is demonetized, might answer the question propounded by Mr. Leete and the columns of the JOURNAL are at his service for that purpose. The farmers, who have to sell their products at less than the cost of production, are not wedded to party names. If maintaining the gold standard helps to restore prosperity, they certainly should vote to maintain it, not until foreign nations consent to demonetize silver, as proposed by the Republicans, but forever. But we digress, the question is: "What good has the demonetization of silver done?"

THE STRANDED STEAMER.

The Columbia rolling heavily and thumping against the rocks, the sea is calm, but a swell is rising and there is about 18 feet of water in the hold. The captain and officers of the steamer have apparently given her up and are preparing to leave when it is no longer safe to remain on board.

There is some water in the after hold. Several tugs and steam schooners have been loaded with freight, and efforts have been made all day to save as much of the cargo as possible. Some of the cargo is washing out of the forehold. The surf breaks close to the steamer and if the sea gets rough she will only last a few hours. People are crowding on the beach to see the wreck, and in anticipation of securing part of the cargo when she goes to pieces.

LABOR TROUBLES IN OHIO.

Strikers Attack Non-Union Men.

CLEVELAND, July 15.—Further disorders occurred at the Brown hoisting and conveying works this morning. The strikers and their sympathizers attacked non-union men on their way to work. The non-unionists were beaten with clubs and felled to the ground. C. W. Jackson received fifteen knife stabs on the face and body and had three ribs broken. For a time the police were greatly outnumbered by the rioters and were unable to cope with the mob. They were reinforced and succeeded in driving the enraged strikers back, and rescuing the non-union men.

Two companies of militia have been ordered out under arms as it is believed another outbreak will occur this evening when the non-union men leave the works.

A BRYAN CELEBRATION.

Peals of Thunder Resound Through the Town.

SALEM, Ill., July 15.—While hundreds of people from all this part of the State were here to attend the Bryan celebration assembled in the Court-house yard to-day, a big black cloud loomed up in the northwest and approached with frightful rapidity and accompanied with terrific peals of thunder. The rain came down in torrents and in ten minutes hunting, flags and draperies, which looked so attractive in the morning were almost ruined. The darkness increased until it was almost impossible to see across the streets. It was an ordinary thunder storm, but of unusual violence and owing to the darkness caused a great deal of alarm. At 12 o'clock it looked as if it would rain all the afternoon.

RAIN AT CANTON.

A Woman's Brass Band Heads a Delegation.

CANTON, July 15.—Despite a blinding rainstorm 500 women from Cleveland came to the station this morning. They were headed by a woman's brass band. Forming in a column of twos they marched to McKinley's home. Mrs. Avery delivered an address and Governor McKinley responded.

TELEGRAPHIC NOTES.

The Populist Convention of South Dakota, voted two to one to endorse Bryan.

The Iowa Republican State Convention endorsed the St. Louis platform and declared that it is in line with its sentiments.

The Arkansas Populist State Convention is in session at Little Rock. The temporary chairman advocated the nomination of a State and National ticket.

The Republicans would have agents at St. Louis to carry on the McKinley campaign. Bryan is to receive the unqualified endorsement of the convention, and in return the Democrats will endorse the Populist State ticket.

The Executive Committee of the National Republican Committee met yesterday at Cleveland, Ohio, Chairman Hanna presiding. The session was held behind closed doors, and it was decided to have National headquarters at New York and Chicago.

A lad named Beltzert at Marshall, Michigan, tied two of his sisters, aged four and five years, respectively, and a little daughter of Dan Durand, to a rope attached to the saddle of a pony. The pony ran away and dragged the children half a mile, killing two of them and seriously injuring the third.

The Nebraska Populist State Convention is in session at Grand Island with four hundred delegates, only one of whom opposed Bryan. Senator Allen, the Chairman of the Convention, said men must lay aside party prejudices and vote as American citizens, not as Populists, Democrats or Republicans.

A mass meeting was held in Butte, Montana, and a Bryan and Sewall Club organized. Over 2,000 voters signed the roll, among whom were many of the most prominent Republicans in the city. Mayor Thompson and State Attorney M. L. Wines, both Republicans, made speeches in which they declared that no silver man could consistently support McKinley. Prominent Populists and Democrats made speeches in support of Bryan.

Mrs. Haskins, the confidential friend of Mrs. Nettie Craven, who claims to be the contract widow of Senator Fair, testified in the Superior Court, San Francisco, yesterday that she had dined several times with Senator Fair and Mrs. Craven at various hotels. She swore that Fair wrote the pencil will on a writing pad, and that subsequently she found a bit of paper adhering to the pad, which fitted in the torn corner of the pencil will, and that she gave this bit of paper to Reuben Lloyd, attorney for Senator Fair's daughters.

AN ABLE PRACTICAL JOKE.

It Created Considerable Excitement in a University City.

The Cambridge (England) Independent Press retells the story of the hoax perpetrated upon the civic and university authorities at Cambridge on the occasion of the visit of the late Shah of Persia to that country. It was on Saturday, June 28, 1873, at 11 o'clock in the forenoon that a telegram was found lying on the hallkeeper's table in the Castlehall. It was directed to the worshipful the mayor of Cambridge, was signed by Lieutenant Colonel Hamilton and read as follows:

"His imperial majesty the Shah of Persia desires to visit your university town today on route for London by special train, arriving at Cambridge station about 1:10 o'clock. Be prepared with escort and reception as far as time allows."

Instantly everybody began tumbling over his fellow. The town clerk was sent for, and messages were dispatched to the vice chancellor, the members of the corporation, the volunteer officers and the cook of St. Peter's college kitchen. The vice chancellor hurried on his robes, the aldermen and councilors did ditto, the volunteers donned their uniforms, and the cook began to boil and fry.

Now were the general public behind-hand. Flags were hung out and crowds gathered in the street. Dr. Goodison, the vice chancellor (frequently known in those days as "Dismal Jimmy"), made his way to the station as fast as his dignity would permit. The mayor, Mr. T. H. Naylor, and the corporation followed suit. A guard of honor and carriages were in waiting, and soon everybody was there except the Shah. Then the news flew round that the railway officials knew nothing about the special train, and after a brief delay it was apparent that the whole thing was a hoax. The perpetrators of the hoax were never discovered, though two persons were afterward freely mentioned in connection with it. In the year of grace 1878 the one of practical jokes was past, but had the authors of the Shah's visit been alive in the days of Theodore Hook they might have lived in literature.

Inhalant Carbonic Acid.

Professor Ugoletti Messo of Turin has tested the breathing of soldiers during an expedition up Monte Rosa, and found that the quantity of carbonic acid exhaled by a man at a height of 20,000 feet or so differs very slightly from what it is at the sea level or near it. The professor has also subjected himself to a rarefied atmosphere in the Physiological institution at Turin, and found that when the pressure in the air was still 34 centimeters (about 7 inches) of a mercury, he felt no inconvenience, but when it was reduced to 30 centimeters (about 6 inches) he felt a great want of breath, and became unfit to make observations. —London Globe.

Artist Could's First Success.

Mr. F. O. Could's first success as a caricaturist were in Barnstable. He sketched the local jailer, and that impudent functionary went to the mayor. "He's then a caricaturist, has young Frank Could. He drew a picture of me—a Christmas pig with an orange in my mouth. I meant to go to stand it, Mr. Mayor." "Take no notice," said his worship. "Ah, but he's been a caricaturist of you, too, Mr. Mayor." The mayor then intimated that he must warn the young artist. —Pemberton's Weekly.

MARRIED.

ADAMS-BRAY. At Carson, Nev. July 15, 1896, by Rev. J. B. Eddie, Chas. H. Adams of San Francisco to Olive Bray of Carson.

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the transient nature of the many physical ills, which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many forms of sickness are not due to any actual disease, but simply to a constipated condition of the system, which the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly removes. That is why it is the only remedy with millions of families, and is everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physician, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

DECLARES FOR BRYAN

The American Bimetallite Union Indorses the Nebraskaan.
After a two days' session and conference with prominent members, the Executive Committee of the American Bimetallite Union at Chicago formally announced its approval of the Democratic platform and candidates. The committee appeals to the silver organizations of the country who intend to send delegates to the St. Louis convention to unite the silver forces by indorsing the work done in the Coliseum. Thirty odd members of the committee and outsiders of the union attended the council which reached this decision. General A. J. Warner, President of the Union, presided. There was no division of sentiment as to indorsement. Following is the address issued by the committee:

To the members of the American Bimetallite Union and of all affiliated unions and leagues throughout the United States, and all other friends of bimetallism:

WHEREAS, The Bimetallite Union, being a consolidation of the American Bimetallite League, the National Bimetallite Union, National Silver Committee and other bimetallite organizations, called a conference at Washington, D. C., on the 22d day of January last, at which conference it was determined that the people in the approaching election should have the opportunity to vote for candidates for President and Vice President and for members of Congress committed unequivocally to the restoration of the unrestricted coinage of both gold and silver on the terms of equality existing prior to 1873, and to make this determination sure a convention was called by said conference to meet at St. Louis on the 22d day of July, there to place in nomination candidates for President and Vice President, in case neither of the two great parties—as then appeared doubtful—offered acceptable candidates to the restoration of the unrestricted coinage of both gold and silver, and, whereas, the Democratic convention just ended at Chicago has adopted a platform containing all the bimetallite have demanded, fully and unequivocally expressed, and has nominated candidates of distinguished ability and long known as sincere advocates of our cause; therefore, be it

Resolved, That in the opinion of this committee but one duty remains for the friends of this great cause to perform, and that is to unite in support of the platform adopted at Chicago and the candidates nominated thereon and to work might and main until the election in November to secure the success of the ticket. If this is done we sincerely believe our cause will be won and prosperity restored to our people.

The only danger to be feared is in the division of our own forces, which we pray will not be allowed to take place. To divide our forces on the eve of the great contest before the world is unnatural and suicidal; and for one to lead a revolt in such a cause and at such a time would count little short of being a public crime. We therefore appeal to all members of the Bimetallite Union and of the affiliated silver leagues and all others opposed to the continuance of the single gold standard, regardless of party affiliations, to come to the support of the platform and the splendid ticket given up at the people's convention just held at Chicago. We further urge all who agree with us upon this vital issue to join with us at St. Louis on the 22d of July, there to indorse and ratify the work so nobly begun.

A. J. Warner, President.
R. C. Chambers, First Vice President.
Henry C. Miller, Second Vice President.
Thomas C. Merrill, Treasurer.
J. B. Grant, of Executive Committee.
H. F. Bartine, of Executive Committee.
George E. Brown, Secretary.

General Warner, just before leaving last night for his home in Marietta, said to a reporter of the United Press: "The committee was unanimous for indorsement. Two-thirds of those present were Republicans. The silver convention in St. Louis will certainly support Bryan. The gold men can have all the tickets they please, the more the better, but we must have only one silver ticket if we are to win. No silver man of national reputation will accept a nomination from any other source. We want all the big silver guns to come to the St. Louis Convention. The Democrats gave us all we asked for and more than we expected a year ago. If we had drawn the silver plank to suit the Democrats we would probably have made it a little more conservative. We must have a silver daily newspaper in Chicago and I think there will be one here soon."

"We expect to beat McKinley in Ohio. The people there are not for the gold standard. I live among them and know them. A life-long Republican in that State wrote to me after the St. Louis convention and said he would not vote to support such a platform, and that 100 other Republicans in his township would follow his example."

A Surprise Party.
Some thirty odd of the young friends of Miss Jennie Coleman surprised her last evening. Several hours were pleasantly spent in games, music and conversation, and the recipient of the surprise proved herself equal to the occasion as an entertainer.

Largely Attended.
The funeral of the late C. O. Pendergast took place at Carson yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. The deceased was well known among old timers and many of his old friends went from Reno and the Comstock to pay their last respects.

THE MONEY QUESTION

What a Native Son Says on the Subject.
LOVELOCK, Nev., July 14, 1896.

Q. What is the whole volume of currency in the United States to-day?

A. Paper, $475,000,000; silver, $610,000,000; gold, $612,000,000.

Q. What is the existing money standard of the country?

A. Gold, by which standard all the paper and silver money is worth but 50 cents on the dollar.

Q. What would be the effect if we should abandon the existing gold standard by the coinage of silver at 16 to 1?

A. Prosperity would again come to our land; it would double the amount of money in circulation, cause railroads to be built, and give the poor people, who have mortgages on their houses and farms, a chance to pay them. It would immediately take 750,000 men from the farms and cities and place them in the mines, thereby reducing the competition of labor on the farms and in the cities. Silver bullion, instead of having a fluctuating value in the markets of the world, would have a fixed value of $1.2923, on a parity with gold. The gold would not leave the country, where it comprises one-half the existing standard of that country, as it has been doing the last eight years.

We would not have to pay Rothschilds for the use of English gold to run our Government. We would not hear of it being shipped back so that another gold bond issue could be made. Gold and silver, placed upon terms of exact equality, at any ratio that might be adopted by the United States, would maintain the parity between the metals, both commercially and in the coinage, for men of brains would not sell a pound of sugar for five cents, when by taking it across the street they could receive ten cents. France alone maintained a parity between the two metals for 70 years at the ratio of 15 1/2 to 1. At the time of the demonetization of silver in 1873, silver, per ounce, was in the markets of the world worth $1.32 in gold. Since that time it has constantly depreciated in value and to-day it registers at 60 1/2 cents per ounce. If hogs and cattle are each worth ten cents per pound, and by legislation we destroy the consumption of hog meat, do we not doubly enhance the value of the beef? The same argument applies to the existing low price of silver. Let us be the hog men at the coming election, and with the help of God, we will disperse the money bonds which bind us to another country, and assume our station among the nations of the earth, independent of Wall street, Lombard street and the gold standard. Our only hope is the indorsement of W. J. Bryan for President by the Populists, and let me add that I will cast my first vote this coming election, and it will be for the principles which underlie Lincoln to every American heart and which are to be found only in W. J. Bryan.

P. G. REP.

District Court.

A demurrer was presented, in the District Court yesterday in the case of the State vs. Giovanni Bottini and Pasquel Capuro, charged with illegal voting.

The case of the State of Nevada vs. Frank Marone, charged with arson, occupied the remainder of the day, a jury having been empanelled and several witnesses examined. The trial was not concluded.

A suit for damages has been filed by Mrs. E. L. Alexander against Theodore Winters and the Washoe Lake Reservoir and Galena Ditch Co., a corporation. The suit is for damage to the lands of Mrs. E. L. Alexander from the overflow from this company's plant.

Suit has been brought against the Southern Pacific Co. by Wm. Barrett through his guardian, John Barrett, for $2,000 damages for injuries sustained several months ago by having his foot crushed while climbing between the cars of a freight train that obstructed a main street in the town of Reno, and which injury has crippled young Barrett for life. Torreyson & Summerfield and Thos. E. Haydon are attorneys for plaintiff.

An appeal has been taken in the case of the State of Nevada vs. Russell Coats, charged with and found guilty in the Justice Court of discharging firearms within the city limits. It will be remembered that defendant was arrested for firing a pistol during a fracas in Charlie Roberts' saloon.

Should Not be Carried Too Far.
A number of the young boys in town have taken a notion to hang bells of different kinds on their bicycles, and have gone so far as to utilize several old cowbells. There is a whole lot of fun in it for the boys no doubt, but if they frighten some team with these bells while riding their wheels through the main streets and cause the injury of some one the Commissioners might pass an ordinance that would spoil their fun and work a hardship on wheelmen.

The business will be under the personal supervision of the two proprietors and no pains will be spared to give the best of service in their line.

Electric Bitters.

Electric Bitters is a medicine suited for any season, but perhaps more generally needed, when the languid exhausted feeling prevails, when the liver is torpid and sluggish and the need of a tonic and alternative is felt. A prompt use of this medicine has often averted long and perhaps fatal bilious fevers. No medicine will act more surely in counteracting and freeing the system from the malarial poison. Headache, indigestion, constipation, dizziness, yield to Electric Bitters. Fifty cents and $1 per bottle at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store.

Marvelous Results.

From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderman, of Diamonds, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at Rives Junction, she was brought down with Pneumonia, succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery, it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at S. J. Hodgkinson's drug store. Regular size, 50 cts. and $1.

The New York Journal and the New York News advocate the election of Bryan. As New York is the home of the goldbug it was not expected that many of the city papers would support a silver man. The Union, also published in New York, says the industrial classes of that and adjacent cities will support Bryan with vigor, and Tammany has declared in his favor.

CHURCHES OF GRANADA.

They Are at Once Magnificent and Beg-garly, Solemn and Gay.

It was in its churches that I thought Granada at once most magnificent and beggarly, most solemn and gay. I know nothing in France or Italy to compare with the effect of the cathedral when the sun steeped streets were left, the leather curtain was lifted and we were suddenly in darkness as of night, a great altar looming dimly in far shadows, vague, motionless figures prostrate before it. Their silent fervor in the strange, scented dusk gave a glow to the ecstasy of a Theresa, of an Ignatius.
But it was well to turn back quickly into matter of fact daylight. To linger over to be reminded that mystery has its price, solemnity its tardiness. In cathedral and capilla real if we ventured to look at the royal tombs at the grille—which even in Spain is without equal—at the retablos, with their wealth of ornament, one scurries after another kept close at our heels, impudently expectant.

If in unknown little church our eyes grew accustomed to darkness, it was that they might be offended with Vir-gins gleaming in silks and jewels, with Cypriotes clothed in petticoats. And if we did once visit the Cartuja it satisfied
our curiosity where other show churches were concerned. The word Cartuja hung upon the lips of every visitor at the Hotel Roma. Foreigners wrestled hopelessly with it. Spaniards repeated it readily, as if in love with its gushing gutturals. We never sat down to a meal that some one did not urge us to the enjoyment of its wonders. At last in self defense we went. The Cartuja's architecture struck us as elaborate, its decoration as abandoned as the gash that had sent us to it. It had not even the amusing gaiety of Bohemia's rococo, but was pretensions and florid in a dull, vulgar way, more in keeping with gilded cafe or popular restaurant. But to this visit my record owes a place, since it was our one concession to the guide-book's commands. It pleased us better to forget the exaggerated, tortured flam-boyance in the kindly twilight of churches the names of which we never troubled to ask.—Elizabeth R. Pennell in Century.

Where the Waiters Ask No Odds.

Common as the practice of tipping is becoming in this city, there must still be restaurants in which tips are neither given nor expected, and among these must be some, at least, of the best and best places in the neighborhood of Park row. I have not been so familiar with these places in recent years as I used to be years ago, before they had grown so large and when coffee and cakes furnished the chief staple of the food provided. In those days I am quite sure that nobody ever thought of tipping the waiters, and I believe that the same practice prevails in them now. It might be that a waiter would take a tip from some old customer with whom he was on friendly terms, but I doubt if he would take one from a casual guest. I think if such a guest should put a tip on the table the waiter would wipe it off on the floor with the cloth with which he swabs the table.

The beef and bean places are refreshing, not only in the food they furnish,
but in the spirit of self reliant independence that pervades them.—Con

Charging a Bear With Bayonets.

Russian soldiers in Siberia are not only encouraged to exercise their martial valor on big game, but are actually led out in squads to take part in the hunt. On a recent occasion a local police inspector joined in the hunt and got two of the soldier hunters to act as his bodyguard. When the bear came merrily romping toward him over the snow, the inspector got hurried, missed both barrels, frung down his gun and buried his head in the snow, seeking to bury out of sight. The bear came on in a great fury. Two of the soldiers waited till he came to close quarters
and turned him back with a volley.
They then charged with fixed bayonets and finished him off in true military style. They have been rewarded for their presence of mind in saving the life of the guardian of the peace by having their photographs hung in their headquarters and being each presented with one rouble.—London Globe.

Who Steals the Bibles?

Although nearly all the passenger cars running out of Chicago have little overhead racks marked "Read and Return," few of these racks contain Bibles, as they used to. The explanation is that the Bibles disappeared so systematically that the American Bible society discontinued furnishing them, believing that they could employ their money in fields in which it would be more appreciated. The suggestion has been made that the Bibles be attached to the car chains, as city directories are in drug stores and hotels, but the idea of chaining down a Bible is so incongruous that it has met with little favor.—Chicago Tribune.

What is the Use of a Practical

John Thompson.
A good many years ago," said an ex-congressman to a party of congressmen, "I was in Georgia. A party of us decided to go from Atlanta to Clarksville on horseback. Tim Murphy, an Irishman, was a lieutenant of the Atlanta police force. He wanted to go, too, and we consented. On our way to Clarksville, through the mountainous sections of the state, we killed two large rattlesnakes. Murphy was amazed and frightened. He wanted to know if the snakes were plentiful, and we told him that they were. We told him that at Clarksville they had often been found in the rooms of guests at the hotel. Tim hated to turn back and so went on.

"We knew that at Clarksville a snake-look keeper had a stuffed bull snake, and we concocted a plan to make Tim wish he had never left Atlanta. We got to the old fashioned hotel all right. We were put in a big room, with four beds in it. We drank a good deal, and Tim was in excellent spirits. It was a warm night, and most of us undressed. Tim pulled off everything but his shirt. He lay down face foremost across the bed. Then I tied a string around the neck of the snake, put a flashlight at the other end of the line and cautiously hitched the hook to Tim's shirt.

"The next time he turned around he got a glimpse of the snake. 'Holy schmo!' he yelled! 'Look!' And then he made a dash for the window. As he jumped out the window the flashlight pricked him in the back. He uttered an awful yell, said he had been bitten and went flying through the sunny streets of the town dressed in his nightgown. We followed and tried to catch him. At every step he swore he had been bitten, and that he would die. We overhauled him after the whole town had been aroused. We took him back to the hotel and filled him with whisky, telling him that was the only cure for a snake bite. The next morning he went to Atlanta and took a course under a physician for snake bite. For years after that Tim would brag about killing 20 snakes at one time and of having been bitten by one of them. He did not learn of the trick for five years, and then he threatened to take my life."—Washington Star.

The Aryan Cowboys.

The study of domestic cattle should be of especial interest to us because they have undoubtedly occupied a more important place in our own ancestral history than any other species of animal. The Aryan tribesmen from whom nearly all western civilization folk are descended were cowboys almost to a man. Like the Kafirs and damaras of South Africa today, all their thoughts were about their herds. This is shown in a curious way by the study of the early development of our language. The Sanskrit word for a king meant originally "a chief herdsman." The word for an assembly, or the meeting place of a congress, was the same as that for a cowyard. A soldier was "one who fights about cows." It would seem as if they regarded nothing else as worth ruling over or talking about or fighting for. Professor Max Muller traces the word "daughter" to the ancient term for a milkmaid. In the good old times they plainly did not take any account of young ladies who were not accomplished performers in the cowpen.

The cow or one was for long ages the chief standard of value. Everything, from a new coat to a new wife, was priced at so many cows. Many of our words which refer to money bear traces of this, such as "fee" and "pecuniary," which are directly derived from the old English and Latin words for cattle. Doubtless there were currency disputes when other materials began to be used for coinage, and difficulties arose about the adjustment of relative values. Cow-pastalism might well have been an important plank in some of the Aryan political platforms.—North American Review.

The Thought Switch.

"I suppose," said Mr. Glimmerton, "that if a man is blessed with fairly good health he ought to be able to sleep nights, but, as a matter of fact, many people lie awake half the night, trying over things not worth worrying about, and waking up in the morning tired out to start with.

"What is needed is a thought switch that will switch the thoughts over from unpleasant lines to lines that are pleasant and keep them there. There are plenty of such switches now, but the trouble with 'em all is that they don't lock. They're all open switches. A man goes over all right, but it's always in places where this switch is laid, and the first thing he knows he slides back on the old line of thought. What we want is a switch that will keep him on the right track till he's gathered strength enough to climb the hill to the level, where the going is easy, and where the track lies straight for dreamland.

"There's the money for the inventor in this, and what a boon he would confer on his brother man."—New York Sun.

For your Protection.—Catarrh "Cure" or Tonsils for Catarrh in light form to be taken internally, usually contain either Mercury or Iodine of Potassium, or both, which are injurious if too long taken. Catarrh is a local, not a blood disease, caused by sudden change to cold or damp weather. It starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat. Cold in the head causes excessive flow of mucus, and if repeatedly neglected, the result of catarrh will follow: severe pain in the head, a roaring sound in the ears, bad breath, and oftentimes an offensive discharge. The remedy should be quick to allay inflammation and heal the membrane. Ely's Oseum Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles and contains no mercury nor any injurious drug. Price, 50 cents.
